CASA FAMILY DAY TO HELP KEEP KIDS DRUG FREE

[City, State, Date] – [Organization’s Name] is joining forces with Family Day to celebrate the simple, everyday things parents do to connect with their kids.

“[Quote from someone in your community about the importance of parental engagement]”

Founded in 2001 by Center on Addiction, Family Day works with organizations across the country to educate parents about how everyday activities create strong, healthy relationships that can prevent future substance use.

“Laying a strong foundation that promotes open communication when your child is very young, like 10 or 12, makes talking easier once your child is a teenager,” said Creighton Drury, CEO of Center on Addiction. “You can build this foundation by engaging in small, simple activities with your kids – like sharing a meal, playing a game, or just asking about your child’s day.”

Adolescence is the critical period for the initiation of risky drug use and its consequences.

• Addiction is a disease that in most cases begins in adolescence.
• Nine out of 10 Americans who meet the medical criteria for addiction started smoking, drinking, or using other drugs before age 18.
• Preventing or delaying teens from using addictive substances for as long as possible is crucial to their health and safety. Every year that initiation of drug use is delayed, the risk of addiction goes down.

[Organization’s Name] is committed to strengthening families and believes that celebrating Family Day is an important first step in helping to keep America’s children and teens drug-free.

Family Day - Making Everyday Special

Whether driving the kids to soccer practice, enjoying family dinner, or tucking little ones into bed, it’s important to remember that those everyday activities have a lasting effect on your children. Each of these moments offers an opportunity to connect, share and really listen to what’s on their mind.

As children age, it is vital to keep those lines of communication open, especially as they start feeling increased pressure to start engaging in risky behavior including smoking, drinking or using other drugs. Adolescence is the critical period for the initiation of risky drug use and its consequences. Nine out of 10 Americans who meet the medical criteria for addiction started smoking, drinking, or using other drugs before age 18. Preventing or delaying teens from using nicotine, alcohol, or other drugs for as long as possible is crucial to their health and safety.

Founded in 2001 by Center on Addiction, Family Day works with organizations across the country to educate parents about how everyday activities, like sharing a meal, playing a game, or asking about their day, can make a difference in the life of a child. Each year Family Day is celebrated on the fourth Monday of September. To learn more about Family Day log on to www.CASAFamilyDay.org.
